St. Patrick's Day Adventure

There once was a leprechaun named                     . He lived in a big                      forest where animals like                      and                      roamed around. He lived a happy life eating                      for breakfast and                      for dinner. His favorite day of the year though, is                                          . On this day he likes to leave his                      and spread joy and cheer to everyone!

Because today is St. Patrick's day, it was a special occasion! So the leprechaun went into town to spread cheer and to his surprise, everyone was wearing                      to celebrate! The Leprechaun was so                      that he shared some of his precious gold with the people in the town, and everyone had a                      time. Make sure you wear green on St. Patrick's day, so the leprechaun can share his gold with you too!
